ON NARROW GAUGE TRACKS

Railroads Used for Warfare in Europe Have Equipment That Is Especially Built.

Among the adaptations of devices of domestic convenience to the reenirements of modern warfare is the employment of narrow gauge railways in the supply of trenches on the battle lines at the front in Europe. More than 100 such trains, it is reported, are now in construction at works in Pennsylvania.

These trains, as described, will run upon a track two feet in width, in tunnels so small that they can reach the aring line, right into the trenches, unseen by the enemy, carrying ammunition, shrapnel, hand grenades and arms. By so much, it is expected the resources of the trench fighters will be supplied. The use of such miniature trains is an incident of the evolution of the system of underground close-to-hand fighting adopted in this war.-Boston Post.
